Joyous celebrations as Gaddafi rule ends

Strongman found, killed after years in power and months on the run from rebels ◗ Libyans around the world take to streets to share moment ◗ Horror not over for thousands of families ◗ Tough road going forward

DAN KITWOOD/GETTY IMAGES

▶ Young Libyan national women react to a video showing the moment of Gaddafi's capture during celebrations outside the Libyan embassy in London, England.

Gunfire echoed across Libya's main cities Thursday as crowds poured into the streets to celebrate the death of Muammar Gaddafi, ruler of the North African nation for 42 years.

Initially, fighters in camouflage garb flashed victory signs, fired their weapons into the air and danced as news spread that Gaddafi's hometown of Sirte had fallen. The celebrations, televised by international broadcasters, reached a crescendo with the announcement that Gaddafi had died. Men toted their children on their shoulders as groups of civilians formed swirling circles to dance.

PHILIPPE DESMAZES/AFP/GETTY IMAGES

▶ Did this young man kill Gaddafi? Reports are mixed.

"This is the happiest moment of my life," said Ibrahim Suleiman, a 22-year-old driver in the city of Benghazi. "When I heard the news on television, I didn't believe it; I ran off to the streets and I started jumping up and down."

In Sirte, cries of "Allahu Akbar," or "God is Great," rang out. In Tripoli, once Gaddafi's seat of power, children and ululating women took to the streets to celebrate alongside men. Some held photos of dead loved ones.

In scenes similar to those that played out in Egypt after President Hosni Mubarak was toppled in February, Libyans — waving the tri-color flags that have becomes a symbol of their revolution — chanted: "Raise your head up high; you're a free Libyan." Others yelled: "The blood of martyrs will not go in vain." BLOOMBERG

News in brief

Obama warns other leaders

WASHINGTON. President Barack Obama hailed Muammar Gaddafi's death as a warning to authoritarian leaders across the Middle East that iron-fisted rule "inevitably comes to an end" and as vindication for his cautious U.S. strategy on Libya. REUTERS

So who pulled the trigger?

SIRTE. The exact circumstances of Gaddafi's demise are still unclear. In a video filmed by a bystander, Gaddafi is shown being dragged off a truck and pulled to the ground by his hair. "Keep him alive," someone shouts. Gunshots then ring out. The camera veers off.

But Libya's ruling body said Gaddafi was killed when a gunfight broke out after his capture between supporters and rebels. It said no order had been given to kill him. REUTERS

Thousands are still missing

GENEVA. Dead bodies are being found regularly in mass graves, hospitals and other sites in Libya, including on roadsides, the International Committee of the Red Cross said. The agency said that thousands of families were waiting to find out what had happened to missing loved ones. REUTERS

ANALYSIS

What's next for Libya?

LONDON. The death of Muammar Gaddafi will be regarded as a victory for the Libyan people, NATO and democracy. But euphoria at the demise of a dictator should not disguise the problems faced by the new Libyan government in cementing peace, rebuilding and implementing good governance in the north African nation, analysts said.

Analysts stressed the National Transitional Council, which led resistance to Gaddafi, had won the war but would need to act quickly and decisively to take advantage of the peace.

Tribal differences, disputes between militia leaders and the expected involvement of exile groups would complicate the task.

"The real battle begins now to rein in the [rebels] and integrate them under the legal umbrella of the state in one of its various bureaucracies, army or police," said Larbi Sadiki, expert on North African politics at Exeter University. REUTERS

"There remains the biggest challenge of all: reconstruction and the battle for good government." SADIKI

In the news

Who's the rat now?

Gaddafi called the rebels who rose against him "rats," but he was captured cowering in a drainage pipe. "We ... brought Gaddafi out," said rebel fighter Salem Bakeer. "He was saying 'What's wrong? What's going on?' Then we took him and put him in the car." REUTERS

Danieal's father gets 2 to 5 years

PHILADELPHIA. Daniel Kelly, the father of the disabled teen who died of starvation in 2006, and two social workers involved in her care were sentenced Thursday to two and a half to five years in prison.

In July, Kelly, who did not live with 14-year-old Danieal Kelly, was convicted of child endangerment. Former city social worker Dana Poindexter and Mickal Kamuvaka, of the Multiethnic Behavioral Heath Inc., were convicted of endangerment and perjury.

Danieal Kelly's mother, Andrea, is serving 20 to 40 years for third-degree murder. METRO/SDL

▶ LaRose allegedly worked with others to recruit.

'Jihad Jane' linked to additional suspects

Woman from Montgomery County allegedly had help from two men

Two men have been charged in connection with a suburban Philadelphia woman for helping to fund planned terrorist attacks in South Asia and Europe.

Ali Charaf Damache, 46, an Algerian man who resided in Ireland, and Mohammad Hassan Khalid, 18, a Pakistani citizen who resided in Maryland, are both behind bars. They are accused of conspiring with Montgomery County resident Colleen LaRose, Colorado resident Jamie Paulin Ramirez and others over the Internet to provide support to terrorists, including recruitment services, financing and identification documents.

According to the indictment, Damache, Khalid and LaRose recruited men online to wage violent jihad in South Asia and Europe and also recruited women who had passports and the ability to travel to and around Europe in support of violent jihad.

LaRose, also known as "Jihad Jane," pleaded guilty in February to helping fund terrorist activity and plotting to kill a European cartoonist who drew a derogatory picture of the prophet Muhammad. Ramirez pleaded guilty to conspiracy to provide material support to terrorists.

▶ The Grumman Greenhouse sculpture combines a Naval plane with a garden. Griska bought the plane, which was used after the war to drop depressants on forest fires, on eBay.

It's a bird! It's a plane! No, it's a new sculpture

A new sculpture installation will soon open at Lenfest Plaza combining two disparate concepts.

A former Cold War-era anti-submarine Naval plane is being painstakingly reconstructed and turned into a harbor for nutritive and medicinal plants by Philadelphia Academy of the Fine Arts graduate Jordan Griska.

"It was mostly about changing the function of the airplane from something disruptive to something productive that generates life," said Griska, 27. "The airplane is grounded, so it no longer has movement in that sense, but growth creates movement in another way."

Griska was selected by a committee at PAFA to create the first of a series of one-year exhibitions at Lenfest Plaza's west end. He bought the decommissioned plane on eBay five months ago and had it trucked up from Alabama.

"I was already interested in recycling and green concepts, so I combined that with my body of work," he said. The plants will be maintained by the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society and donated to its City Harvest Program, which provides meals for low-income families.

"It's great, because former pilots are really enthusiastic about this type of plane," said Caryn Kunkle, director of the Philadelphia Salon, which helped fund the project. "A lot of them were pulling up lawnchairs and watching as we installed it."

Satellite law flies through Council

RIKARD LARMA/METRO

▶ Cluttered space

In the latest chapter of Councilman Darrell Clarke's ongoing satellite bill saga, perennial citizen opponent Earl Lively conceded during public testimony Thursday. The bill passed with a unanimous vote after being amended four times.

"The community has spoken in support," said Lively, who testified at Council three times against the legislation. He said that he polled about 100 residents and that the majority of them were in agreement with the bill.

"I thank Council for listening to me last week versus the BlackBerrys that take up a lot of your time," he added.

The law will require satellite installers to put new dishes on the roof or rear of a building, rather than on its facade. If the front of a building is the only place where there is adequate signal strength, companies must provide written proof to L&I and paint dishes to match the facade. Existing dishes are grandfathered and will not require modification.

Curfew vote hit snag in Council

City clerk says screwup in advertising curfew bill led to no vote ◗ But Occupy Philly members take credit for getting Council to table bill ◗ Vote could come up again

City Council tabled the stricter curfew bill Thursday as pressure from opposition groups, including members of Occupy Philly, filled Council chambers.

"We are worried that the policy will be disproportionately enforced in neighborhoods dominated by the poor and minorities," said Kadijah White, who identified herself as a member of the movement.

Other concerns raised included the cost of curfew enforcement, its constitutional legality and research studies showing that curfews do not impact juvenile delinquency.

"We're happy to know we may have had an effect. We came in strong."
WHITE

Councilwoman Blondell Reynolds Brown, who introduced the bill on behalf of the Nutter administration, admitted that it required a delicate hand. "It's a law where the lines are fragile," she said. "We have to balance protecting the constitutional rights of citizens and putting measures in place to prevent violent attacks."

"We have mixed reviews about research," she added. "Two members of the police force got reports where the number of flash mobs has dropped dramatically because of the new curfew law."

▶ Some Occupy Philly members said peace out to the city curfew bill. But it could return for a vote next week.

Jones meets OP

Councilman Curtis Jones met with Occupy Philly members after Thursday's Council session and discussed their concerns.

- "I think it's tremendous," Jones said of the movement. "This is the birthplace of democracy. We don't have to always agree, but we do have to communicate."
- Jones also spoke out in support of Occupy Philly during Council. "We are in agreement with many more things than we are divided on," he said. "None of us in this chambers are in the 1 percent. All of us are in the 99 percent."
- "It seems that he's supportive of our points, but not of what we believe is an added harassment of young people," Kadijah White said after talking to Jones. "He's against the criminalization of youth, but he still wants the curfew."

WASHINGTON. Sales of existing homes fell in September, extending a pattern of declines and gains that show the industry continues to be buffeted by consumer pessimism and unemployment above 9 percent. Cash flowed while NJ gov. weighed bid

Chris Christie's fundraising swing through western states last month brought in at least $530,000 as former U.S. Attorney General John Ashcroft and a Stifel Financial Corp. co-chairman helped the New Jersey governor shatter the out-of-state fundraising record.

His trips generated more than $620,000 from non-New Jersey sources, out of almost $1.5 million raised by the state Republican Party in the quarter that ended last month, according to a New Jersey Election Law Enforcement Commission filing.

Christie, 49, the first Republican elected governor in New Jersey since 1997, spent the last week of September on a round of speeches and fundraisers, including stops in California and Missouri. He sought to attract money for home-state candidates as he weighed joining the race for the Republican presidential nomination next year. BLOOMBERG

"New Jersey has never had a governor as dynamic ... [with] donors and supporters across the country. This is unprecedented."

Dinosaurs: Bony, feathery and Totally Enormous

The word du jour for CMJ acts this year seems to be "dinosaur." There's Dinosaur Bones, a great indie rock outfit from Toronto who played earlier this week. There's Dinosaur Feathers, who at times sound like Jack White playing tropical music. They play Bruar Hall in Brooklyn on Saturday night. And then there is possibly the most awesome band name of any act playing CMJ this year: Totally Enormous Extinct Dinosaurs! They play a whacked-out hybrid of electronic music that somehow sounds very human, and they're at Santos Party House on Friday night and at Cameo Gallery on Saturday night. For additional information on these acts and more, visit www.cmj.com/marathon.

Givers

SALLY MORRIS/METRO

▶ Givers turned in an energetic show on Thursday at Ace Hotel. They play again on Saturday.

This sweet coed five-piece temper their world music flavor with charisma, distortion pedals and electronic undertones. And, when they jump up and down onstage, their energy is contagious. Just make sure you don't get the beer of the guy behind you all over your clothes when you start pogo-ing. Get there early, because the lineup is probably the best bang-for-your-buck bill in all of CMJ. Free Energy and Unknown Mortal Orchestra have both received quite a bit of Metro ink, and Gotye is a Belgian-Australian songwriter who has a really great knack for matching up catchy tunes with the right off-kilter instrumentation.

An Horse

This Aussie duo plays a punky sort of indie rock that recalls the glory days of bands like Superchunk and Sebadoh. Drummer Damon Cox and singer-guitarist Kate Cooper wail on their instruments with a focused agitation. Guitars are fuzzy, melodies are pretty and Cooper is a woman who knows the nuances of a well-delivered cuss word.

An Horse play Saturday night.

Yellow Ostrich

It's easy to get distracted by the unique instrumentation and cool gadgets with which Alex Schaaf surrounds his songs. Even though it's amazing that utility guy Jon Natchez is playing a huge sax and sampling himself several times over to sound like a horn section, and Schaaf is sampling his voice to sound like a choir, none of it would matter if the songs weren't so sturdy. Best lyric: "Mary, you are doing drugs/Don't you think we know?/You've always seemed a little too happy, Mary."

Yellow Ostrich play Saturday night.

C-M-Yay!

The College Music Journal Music Marathon is the Northeast's biggest assembly of performers ◐ Is it worth $150 and an NYC roadtrip? ◐ We think so ◐ CMJ isn't just indie rock anymore! ◐ Yes, that is a picture of En Vogue

Lady Lamb the Beekeeper

Aly Spaltro sometimes sounds like a heartbroken old lady, weaving lyrics so wise you'd swear they were written by a poet laureate. Oh, and did we mention she's only 22?

She plays guitar fluidly and has mastered a dynamic where she will be shouting passionately one minute and gently cooing and cradling listeners' hearts the next, all the while stringing phrases together that surprise with each new unveiled word.

Lady Lamb the Beekeeper play Friday night.

En Vogue

En Vogue? Aren't they, like, from the '90s or something? Free your mind! You might think they're not quite as untouchable as they once were, but what part of "You're Never Gonna Get It" did you not understand? These funky divas have returned and are as badass as they ever were.

En Vogue play Friday night.

Action Bronson, Chris Webby, Kid Ink, Dom Kennedy, French Montana, Machine Gun Kelly

This is the best rap-for-your-buck show. Machine Gun Kelly, a self-described "little white boy from the Midwest" spits words so rapidly that his moniker is well-deserved. We can't get enough of Dom Kennedy's "2mph" song, and Kid Ink is probably the only rapper with enough guts to sample Survivor, Cyndi Lauper and Queen. And we're not talking "We Will Rock You" Queen, we're talking Freddie Mercury's last album with the band. Against these ambitious samples, Kid Ink raps funny rhymes like how he's "walkin' like a giant, fee-fi-foe-in'" and "runnin' like I've got the legs of a centipede." It's clear he's going somewhere.

Kid Ink et al. play Friday night.

‘Sitting down alone in a room with a computer’

Frontman of electro-pop outfit Metronomy discusses the solitary nature of his songwriting process Why the band’s blowing up now, after their third album release

Three albums in and Metronomy, the electro-pop quartet based in Brighton, England, are only now getting name recognition in the U.S. and in their native country. The second part is especially odd, because earlier this year they received a Mercury Prize nomination (the U.K. equivalent to a Grammy) for their latest album, “The English Riviera.” But frontman and Metronomy mastermind Joseph Mount is philosophical about the newfound fame.

“Certainly with the English music press, you sometimes need to prove your worth,” he says. “Some bands get this massive hype from the beginning, and then other bands just have to stick at it until people realize you’re not going to just disappear. I guess it just feels like it’s the right time for people to feel like they can get behind it a bit more.”

All the adoration may also be due to the fact that Mount and his bandmates have put together a palatable pop album that fuses Metronomy’s characteristically clicky synths with danceable beats and singable melodies. Mount is a natural tinkerer, having made the band’s last two albums largely on his own.

“They were all home recorded,” he says of the first two albums, “I just thought at that point maybe it would’ve been a strange decision to keep making it that way,” he says, adding that two new bandmates also allowed for an expansion of range.

“You go on the stage and you’re kind of aware of what kinds of songs you could add to the set to make it a bit more dynamic,” Mount says. “But when it comes down to it, I’m kind of stuck in this way of writing since the beginning — which is just like, sitting down alone in a room with a computer.”

Radio nowhere

Mount on how U.K. radio stations determine the success of bands:

“There’s this radio station in England, BBC Radio One, that has this iron grip on the success of bands. 6 Music started as this alternative to Radio One, but after a while it ended up being the same ... where it’s in charge of breaking bands and if you are on 6 Music, then you are more likely to get on Radio One. They’ve got playlists like Radio One. ... So they get behind new bands. ... It’s all corrupt.”

'The greatest day I've ever known'

ANGELA WEISS/WIREIMAGE/GETTY IMAGES

The Smashing Pumpkins' legendary frontman Billy Corgan discusses his new tour, playing the old hits and why 'nostalgia is the death of all art'

Billy Corgan is one of the titans of '90s alternative rock. He's a polarizing figure in some circles, having issued a few controversial remarks in the past regarding his ex-bandmates, with whom he no longer tours. But with a new set of musicians touring under the Smashing Pumpkins name, Corgan wants to bring the band into the present with his latest tour.

Does the music you write under the Smashing Pumpkins name differ from material you've written as Zwan or your self-titled work?

The whole idea with the Pumpkins originally was supposed to be an experimental excitement kind of thing, whereas away from the Pumpkins, I tend to write a little bit more traditional music. There's something about the way the band was formed as being in awe of rock 'n' roll but also wanting to destroy rock 'n' roll.

So, how does one destroy rock 'n' roll?

Let's say 20 years ago, there was sort of an unwritten rule that you don't talk about how fake rock 'n' roll really was. ... The Pumpkins came along and were willing to poke holes in the indie alternative world, in the facetiousness of the whole thing.

Touring under the Smashing Pumpkins name, how do you decide which old songs to play?

I'm only talking about the past, but you'll play a new song that's a pretty good song and the audience applauds and then you play a mediocre old song and the audience acts like it's the greatest song they've ever heard. As an artist, you're standing there saying, "OK, that's not real. That's a memory-sensory reaction." ... It's about finding stuff that you can really feel strongly about, that you'll actually get the audience to feel what you're playing in that moment.

So it's about getting the order of things right?

No, it's like, look — I don't know how many songs that I've got that are like no-brainer songs that I should play. No matter how badly I play them, the audience is going to be like, "Yeaaaah!" My job is to put that song into a position that when I do play it ... they actually hear something different in the song because of the way it's been portrayed or where it is in the set. ... We're in 2011, and this music is important because it still connects you to something today — not 15 years ago when you were in the back of the car with Sally. Nostalgia is the death of all art.

‘Three Musketeers’ 3-D: All style but no swagger

BOLF KONOW, SMPSP

▶ Orlando Bloom and Logan Lerman co-star in “The Three Musketeers.”

Self-consciously stupid or not, this rendition of the Dumas classic is pointless and just a bit too silly

“The Three Musketeers”
Director: Paul W.S. Anderson
Cast: Logan Lerman, Orlando Bloom, Luke Evans, Matthew Macfadyen, Ray Stevenson
Rating: PG-13
Grade: ●●○○○

“All for one, and one for all” — that hackneyed battle cry of 17th century swashbuckling mustached Frenchmen has croaked yet again. This time round, director Paul W.S. Anderson of the much-maligned ‘Resident Evil’ saga is in charge of injecting joie de vivre into this ol’ Dumas tale.

On the face of it, Anderson has the weaponry to carry the story of the usual gang of four into the 21st century: an ‘ensemble’ cast of some critical clout (Logan Lerman, Matthew Macfadyen, cult favorite Milla Jovovich and Orlando Bloom) along with sumptuous decor and locations, all glittering in lush 3-D.

The director may have the wherewithal, but where is the story, the substance? One would be at pains to find it. From the opening scene, when one musketeer rises from a Venetian canal donning a black ninja costume, we are treated to a litany of faux pas and anachronisms: dodgy American accents in European settings, staccato and predictable punchlines that are utterly forgettable and eye-rolling action sequences involving ‘steampunk-inspired’ gargantuan blimps.

What pleasure can be gained from this garish, irreverent display? Perhaps smirching at Orlando Bloom’s hyperreal pompadour coif and frill-necked costumes. Yes, this self-consciously stupid movie doesn’t take itself seriously — but worst of all, it has that flippant attitude toward its audience.

Our Aim is to Beat Most Offers!

We Strive to Beat All Legitimate Written Offers

Before Bringing your items to us, take them to other dealers. Have them give you legitimate offers in writing. Then bring your jewelry and written offers to one of our locations. Although no one can guarantee with certainty they are paying the highest price for an article at any particular time, we will strive to beat most legitimate written offers.

Why We Can Usually Pay More Than Other Dealers

Most jewelers and dealers specialize in few items and focus on newer looking items to resell. Because they are unfamiliar with many other items including vintage jewelry, old watches, coins, flatware, etc. they tend to offer very low prices because these items are not readily saleable for them. Our company has many specialized buyers for the various classifications of items that we purchase, therefore we can usually pay more.

A Note Regarding the Up To Prices listed in this Ad

The condition and rarity of an item determines its price. If an item is in excellent condition and very rare it might be worth the up to price, or even more. However, if an item is in poor condition, the value will be lower. For example, a 1927 S Quarter could be worth $7,000 in new condition or less than $20 in poor condition. The up to price reflects items of exceptional quality and rarity. Although it is unlikely you will have these items due to their extreme rarity, feel free to bring whatever items you may have and we will evaluate them free of charge.

Customer Satisfaction

Most of our business comes from satisfied customers and referrals which includes their friends and families. Our showrooms are safe and private. Our staff is courteous and professional and we strive as a company to make your selling experience a pleasant one.

Bean goes Bond

'Johnny English Reborn'
Director: Oliver Parker
Cast: Rowan Atkinson, Rosamund Pike
Rating: PG Grade: ●●●○○
You can be excused for questioning the need to resurrect Rowan Atkinson's James Bond spoof eight years after we all roundly ignored the original. The sequel still relies on bad puns and sight gags to hold the attention of its audience (mostly pre-pubescent boys). But as far as movies with bad puns and sight gags go, this one is pretty good. Thank Atkinson for that, as he still has the ability to make this character loveable while mugging for the camera.

'Paranormal Activity 3'
Director: Henry Joost
Cast: Katie Featherston, Sprague Grayden
Rating: R
Grade: ●●●○○

'Paranormal Activity 3' provides some great scares and is deft with its 'found footage' camera work

"Paranormal Activity 3" takes the prequel approach by showing heroine Katie in her younger years.

The new "Paranormal" film is a prequel to the first films and follows the template set by the first two movies. Set in the VHS era of 1988, recurring characters Katie and Kristi Rey are little girls living with their mother (Lauren Bittner) and her boyfriend (Christopher Nicholas Smith), a wedding video editor. When they start hearing strange sounds in their new Carlsbad, California, house, he sets up video cameras to find out what's keeping them up at night. The movie asks the question, "Is the boyfriend obsessed, or is the house possessed?"

The movie did frighten us — but only in the last 15 minutes, which were terrific. It was a bit too long getting going and had a bit too much dark humor to create that air of dread right off the top. The first two installments of the franchise really creeped people out; this one is better made, but didn't give the real punch until the end.

It takes real filmmaking talent to look this artless. One thing that's great about the series, and this movie in particular, is how much of the plot takes place at the edges of the screen. You really have to pay attention to see what's really happening in the frame. And the still shots almost feel like some European art film, although the technical innovation of the oscillator-cam in this film is inspired. Also pleasing was the fact that the movie had a backstory and plot; although, cleverly, you don't realize it until the movie is done.

How to be the 'Boss'

Kelsey Grammer keeps Chicago running — by whatever means necessary — in the new Starz drama

Kelsey Grammer's Tom Kane is the deeply ambitious, yet flawed (read: corrupt), mayor of Chicago in the new Starz drama "Boss." As the actor best known for his comedic chops — he played Dr. Frasier Crane for 20 years on "Cheers," then "Frasier" — takes a turn into the dramatic, here's how he tapped into his dark side.

Stray from the norm

After three failed attempts to return to comedic television post-"Frasier," Grammer decided to take a break.

"After my heart attack, which was three years ago, I spent the next several months looking at my own life," says the 56-year-old. "I cast my … imaginative net over the next 30 or 40 years, whatever they may be. And I just decided I didn't want to have that story be my last story. And so I decided that it was time to make changes that involved my career as well as my personal life. And doing a drama started to make really good sense because it took me back to my roots. It took me back to things I believed in, in telling good stories."

▶ Kelsey Grammer stars as Mayor Tom Kane in "Boss," premiering Friday at 10 p.m. on Starz.

Be bad to be loved

Grammer likens Kane to the scheming Iago in Shakespeare's "Othello."

"Iago is one of the most liked characters in Shakespeare's canon, and he's the most extraordinarily manipulative person in history," Grammer says. "I think there's at least a kind of a similarity with [Kane]."

Kane, however, doesn't necessarily view himself as the bad guy.

"He's completely convinced that there's a working model and justification for doing anything you have to do to remain in power," Grammer says of the mayor. "It's just for the better good. On some level, he believes he's the one that's most qualified to make the decision … to either eliminate an enemy or embrace an enemy and make something good happen."

And whatever you do, never let them see you sweat

The most powerful man in Chicago receives a devastating blow in the opening scenes of the pilot: He is diagnosed with Lewy body dementia, a rare disease associated with Alzheimer's.

"It's really a dramatic device … for the benefit of raising the stakes in this guy's life," Grammer says. "What the overlay of this malady may do is force him into a position where he suddenly realizes that preserving his own place is the greatest good. He's a man of power, accustomed to power, and he will go kicking and screaming on his way down toward hell."

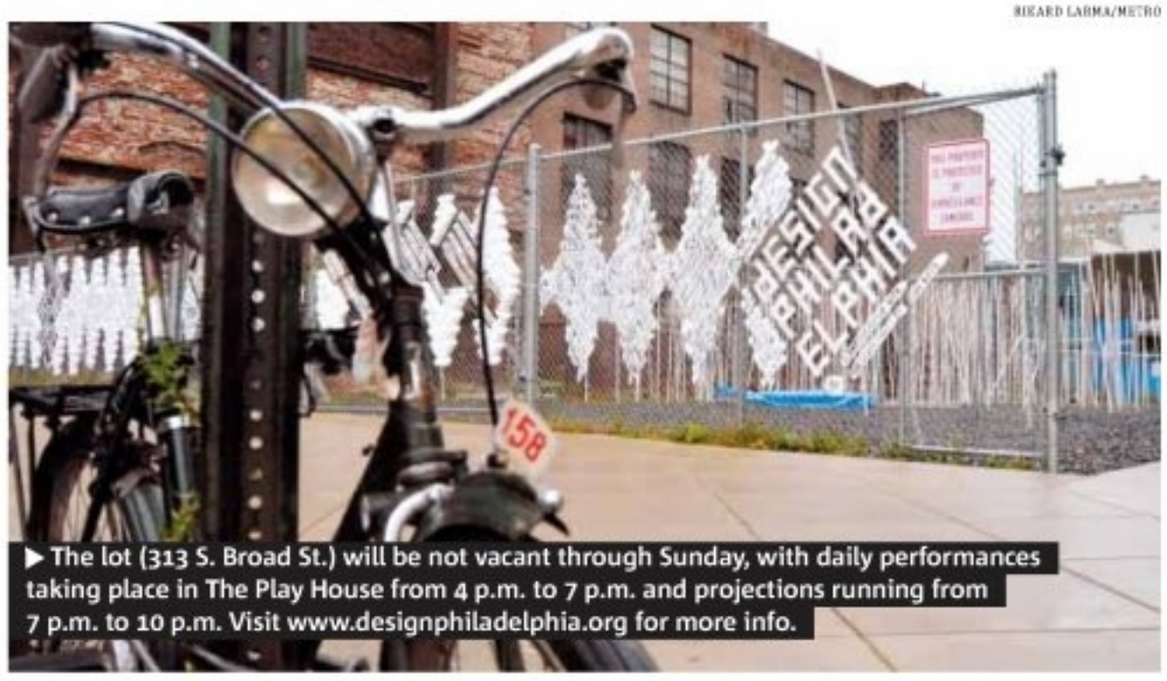
Who are you calling a vacant lot?

We're down one unused space thanks to a Design Philadelphia project Artists on their lot's potential

RIKARD LARMA/METRO



▶ The lot (313 S. Broad St.) will be not vacant through Sunday, with daily performances taking place in The Play House from 4 p.m. to 7 p.m. and projections running from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. Visit www.designphiladelphia.org for more info.

Although a fixture on the streets of Center City, it's unlikely that the trumpet-playing rollerblader will be performing at the Kimmel Center anytime soon. But when he showed up at the stage across the street, he was booked on the spot.

"When can you be here?" asked Marianne Bernstein, fishing through her bag for a pen.

Despite not being a terribly skilled trumpet player — and carrying a backpack that he claims can detect explosives and anger, assisting him in his peace-keeping rollerblading mission — the artist who prefers to go by "Nobody" is exactly who The Play House is looking for. A sparse 8-by-8 aluminum cube, it is part of "Not a Vacant Lot," a Design Philadelphia project that has commandeered a formerly unoccupied lot at 313 S. Broad Street.

"We wanted to ask, 'What can you do with these spaces? Who can use these spaces?'" says Bernstein, who once again teamed up with architect Daryn Edwards, her partner on 2009's similar "Welcome House" installation at Love Park.

This weekend, The Play House will host everything from yoga classes to hip-hop concerts — in addition to evening video projections on a Spandex shell.

A reminder of the potential of the city's 30,000-plus vacant lots, The Play House also asks us to take a second look at our fellow commuters, neighbors and rollerbladers.

"When you put something in a frame," says Bernstein, "you see it differently."

Mapping it out

Part Two of "Not a Vacant Lot" is an installation by Penn architecture grad students that maps out unused land in the city using PVC pipes.

"One of the things we're emphasizing is the idea of instead of being reactive, being proactive; instead of just waiting for a job, getting out and knowing the neighborhood and making an impact, quite literally," says architect Brian Phillips, who teaches the "Design for Impact" class. "There are lots of opportunities and urban spaces that can be put to use, and we're thinking optimistically about it."

Sounding out a spooky Halloween

DARIN J. DUNSTON

▶ Hear Again stages vintage radio programs.

Darin J. Dunston gets strange looks at yard sales. He likes to give stuff a good listen before purchasing it, rattling pie tins and squeezing three separate puff octaves out of a bicycle hose.

Dunston is the founder of the Hear Again Radio Project, a group of local actors who perform vintage radio dramas in the Skinner Studio at Plays and Players Theater, complete with live sound effects and campy commercials from the classic radio era.

"The idea — that we like the audience to play along with — is that we're broadcasting coast to coast, so we're inviting people into our studio to hear a live broadcast," explains Dunston. "We like to warm people up beforehand, like, 'If you feel like laughing or crying, please do! It adds so much to the people at home.'"

Hear Again's "Halloween Spooktacular" hits the stage this weekend, and is perhaps the most challenging to date for Dunston, featuring the 1935 radio drama "Slurp! Goes the Amoeba" from NBC's popular "Lights Out" series. This show promises plenty of blood curdling, well, slurping.

"We were experimenting with different slurps, and didn't quite find the right thing, until I came across an article on the original series. There was a photo of a rubber glove with water, and you get such a nice 'SLURRRRP!' that way," reports Dunston.

THE WORD

Metro's Monica Weymouth shares her take on the world of gossip @monicaatmetro monica.weymouth@metro.us

– Dorothy Robinson will return on Tuesday.

Remember when she cared enough to get a spray tan and brush her hair for us? From left: Lindsay Lohan's court booking photo from Wednesday evening, Sept. 2010, July 2010, Nov. 2007 and July 2007.

Lindsay off to a bad start

WWW.METRO.US/WORD
VISIT US ONLINE FOR MORE

Less than 24 hours after being taken into custody for failing to perform her court-ordered community service, Lindsay Lohan managed to show up late to her new gig at the L.A. County Morgue and was turned away.

Not that it was her fault, of course. In a statement to TMZ, the sometimes-actress' publicist explained that she was 40 minutes late Thursday morning due to "a combination of not knowing what entrance to go through and confusion caused by the media waiting for her arrival."

The girl's had a tough couple years. And if today goes "well," she'll be cleaning autopsy tables. So we're willing to ignore that little "blame the media" dig for now. But just a warning, Linds: We're fresh out of material on you, and these "Lindsay Lohan was late to the morgue" jokes are writing themselves over here. Play nice.

No hard feelings from Jill Zarin

Although her job for four years was essentially to gossip and manufacture drama on "The Real Housewives of New York," ex-cast member Jill Zarin was all air kisses when discussing the show with Parade.com: "I had a four-year run on a very successful show. And it's just now starting to air in Europe. I get about 50 e-mails a day from the U.K., Germany, Israel and Australia — we're all over the world. The show will continue — good or bad — to live on in reruns on Bravo and any other network."

That's right: worldwide undead "Real Housewives." The end, friends, is certainly near.

Kellan Lutz isn't gay, ladies — he's just not that into you

"I've heard that people think I'm gay. I've heard it all," the actor tells the Advocate. "See, I don't really go after girls. Most of the girlfriends I've had have come after me. So it's really funny when girls get offended because I don't hit on them. They will transform their insecurity into, 'Oh, that makes sense, because I heard you're into guys and have a boyfriend.' I'm like, 'Seriously? That's your tactic to get me to like you?'"

Lutz

No, Kellan. I opted for a super creepy caption-writing spree when "Twilight: New Moon" came out. Which, I'd like to point out, was also suspiciously unsuccessful.

Talking points

French don't care, but we do

Carla Bruni-Sarkozy and her husband, French president Nicolas Sarkozy, welcomed their first child, Giulia, this week, according to The Telegraph. The baby is the first child born to a ruling French leader since Napoleon. Of course, the new mom doesn't see this as news, as Bruni-Sarkozy told the BBC last month: "There isn't much to say. So many women are expecting children and giving birth, and it's so uninteresting for French people."

Hurray for ScarJoseph!

A work-related meeting reportedly led to something more for Scarlett Johansson and Joseph Gordon-Levitt, as sources tell Us Weekly the two were spotted making out in New York recently. "They were kissing," a source says. "They were very lovey."

A girl for Jessica?

Reports on Jessica Simpson's alleged pregnancy have moved past when she'll announce it and onto what the gender of the baby will be. And the answer is a girl, according to Hollyscoop. "She's telling people it's like winning the lottery, twice," a source says of Simpson. "Jessica really wanted to find out the baby's sex, she hates surprises. She and [fiance] Eric [Johnson] are both so happy."

Taylor Swift: Not that girl

Taylor Swift says she's extremely single these days — and very happy that way. "I don't have a boyfriend. I don't even have, like, kind of a boyfriend. I don't have someone that I'm texting that is a guy that someday might be my boyfriend," the country crooner tells Ellen DeGeneres during a visit to her talk show. "If you're the girl that needs a boyfriend, and once she loses that boyfriend needs to replace it with a different boyfriend, it's just this constant stream of boyfriends all the time. I don't ever want to be that girl."

Where are they now? Stars with criminal records

As Lindsay Lohan's courtroom drama is renewed for yet another season, we take this time to check in on other stars who have gotten into trouble with the law.

1. All eyes are on Lindsay Lohan as we await her next court date on Nov. 2, where she may be facing some serious jail time. She was seen here attending a court hearing in Los Angeles, Calif., on Wednesday.

2. She spoke of new beginnings during her jail time in 2007, but just last month, Paris Hilton completed her one-year probation for her 2010 drug arrest. There may be no new beginning, but this is surely not the end for Hilton, who was seen here attending the "Dirty Dancing" musical premiere in Germany on Wednesday.

3. Shia LaBeouf looked all prim and proper at the "Transformers: Dark of the Moon" premiere in New York City in June, but just last week the actor — who was arrested for driving under the influence in 2008 — got into a fistfight outside a bar in Vancouver.

4. George Michael has been arrested a number of times — even landing in jail last year — and we're guessing that the British pop star won't be keeping quiet for much longer. Here, he was performing in the Czech Republic in August.

5. The character she played on "The O.C." led a dramatic life, and in reality, Mischa Barton has had a few legal issues of her own. But these days at least, it looks like history is not going to repeat itself: She looked fresh-faced at the launch of her own handbag line in New York City last month.

6. Nicole Richie, who attended ELLE's 18th Annual Women In Hollywood Event in Beverly Hills, Calif., on Monday, is certainly projecting herself as a proud mother, a devoted wife and a good citizen — her drug-using and illegal-driving days are over!

Public enemy?

"MEET ME AT THE PLAZA," NYTIMES.COM, OCT. 19.
What is public? The word — derived from the Latin "populis" meaning "the people" — is typically used to describe groups of individuals. But the line has become increasingly blurred regarding corporations.

Tensions between private and public interests have blossomed since the NYPD convinced OWS protesters to make a home of Zuccotti Park. The park — once known by the Tahrir-esque One Liberty Plaza before being renamed in honor of a corporate ally on the city zoning board — is what is known as a "privately owned public space," a seemingly paradoxical legal entity born out of New York City's need to temper its glass, steel and concrete with usable green space. Property owners — in this case Brookfield Properties — receive lucrative zoning concessions in return for a public contribution and the stipulation that their rules governing the shared space be "reasonable." Who decides said reasonability? That remains a private matter.

EMILY ANNE EPSTEIN/METRO

▶ Is Zuccotti public or not?

Before these protests, Brookfield's view of "reasonable" centered on restricting use of bicycles and skateboards. Recently, however, the corporation has come to rethink its linguistic assessment. Last week, notices circulated warning of new rules prohibiting "lying down on the ground" and "the placement of tarps or sleeping bags." That could be a huge problem as winter settles over the city.

Wealthy landlords are currently working on plans to prevent future occupations of public spaces. Says Steven Spinola, president of the city's Real Estate Board: "If you can say that the plazas are closed between 1 a.m. and 5 a.m., I'm not sure who that's harming." Here's a hint: It's not him and his private-interest buddies.

Is that reasonable? It depends on who you ask.

♈ Aries March 21-April 19. When exchanging ideas with someone whose mind you respect, be more of a listener than a talker. Chances are he or she will offer some interesting information you can use.

♉ Taurus April 20-May 20. If confronted with a challenge by someone who has opposed you previously, don't back down. Proving what you have to offer is both productive and effective.

♊ Gemini May 21-June 20. You've had to learn to forge order out of chaos, because you have a talent for making a mess in the first place. Trust your gift and apply it without hesitation whenever needed.

♋ Cancer June 21-July 22. There's a good chance that something you wanted changed will be altered, but owing to someone else's influence, not yours. If it helps you, who cares?

♌ Leo July 23-Aug. 22. Because you are a fast thinker who possesses sound judgment, you should be able to come up with a solution to a problem that needs an instant, creative answer. Don't hesitate.

♍ Virgo Aug. 23-Sept. 22. With your natural resourcefulness, you'll have some ingenious concepts at your fingertips. Even though you may pull them out of thin air, the things you envision will be very doable.

The importance of shopping

If you had the Browns in last Sunday's game against the Raiders at +6.5, you probably gave up when they were down 24-7 in the fourth quarter. If you had them at +7, maybe you stayed on. But if you had +7.5, you knew you had a shot for a backdoor win.

Of course, the Browns rallied in garbage time and ended up losing by seven. The message: Shopping for the best line is a necessity, not a luxury. It's perhaps the No. 1 tool that separates "sharp" bettors from "square" bettors.

Tons of NFL games are decided by exactly three or seven points. Sportsbooks know this. So simply shopping for the best possible number could very well add up to a lot of profit.

How? If you bet online, use multiple sites. And don't look past buying from 2.5 to 3. ADAM LEVITAN

Defensive backfield in constant motion

Coleman, Allen look to stop revolving door at safety ● Back in coach's good graces after strong showings ● Eagles host Cowboys next weekend

Safety valve. Safety net. Safety dance.

Whichever clever pun you wish to insert about the Eagles' revolving door at defensive back, it might be over. Finally.

After Kurt Coleman's three-interception performance last week in Washington, it appears the team is confident with him as the starting strong safety moving forward.

Coleman, who was benched after giving up a touchdown in Week 3, became the 11th player in Eagles history to have three picks in a game — and the first since 1966.

"I think it was a humbling experience," Coleman said of being benched. "I'm a competitor and I know what I am capable of doing out there, but the first three games I wasn't getting it done, and that was apparent."

Coleman was named the NFC's Defensive Player of the Week for his clinic against the Redskins.

"I thank the Lord that I was able to make the plays," Coleman said.

Not to be outdone, fellow second-year pro Nate Allen also sniped an errant Rex Grossman pass.

GETTY IMAGES

▶ Coleman makes one of his three interceptions last week in Washington.

Allen has regained his starting job, at free safety, after beginning the season behind Jarrad Page. Allen started 13 games last year as a rookie before injuring his knee.

"Hopefully, Nate Allen and I are the right combination," Coleman said. "We have a very good relationship on and off the field."

It appears the pair will be the starting safeties for the foreseeable future, although Eagles coach Andy Reid wouldn't confirm it.

"Listen, they're young guys that are improving," Reid said. "As long as they keep working hard and have the right mindset, that's a good thing."

The cold, hard football facts

A look at this weekend's NFL action through the eyes of the football stat experts at Coldhardfootballfacts.com.

Making life tough for QBs

Winning in the NFL is all about passing well on offense and stifling opposing QBs. One way we measure the latter at Cold, Hard Football Facts is with defensive passing yards per attempt. It takes into account the impact of sacks.

Pittsburgh, despite a slow start, has a defense built for the playoffs. High-powered New England, meanwhile, has a critical weak link on 'D' that's likely to snap in the postseason.

Some notable teams in defensive passing yards per attempt:

1. Pittsburgh (4.5 YPA)
2. Baltimore (5.19 YPA)
3. Detroit (5.22 YPA)
8. N.Y. Jets (5.9 YPA)
9. San Francisco (6.0 YPA)
14. N.Y. Giants (6.3 YPA)
18. Philadelphia (6.5 YPA)
21. Green Bay (7.1 YPA)
32. New England (7.9 YPA)

Ffchamps.com's 'Start and Sit'

Start him
Bears QB Jay Cutler has been as hit-or-miss as a Nicolas Cage movie, but Chicago's field general is coming off a two-TD effort against Minnesota. We expect Cutler to put in a strong encore performance against Tampa Bay's 26th-ranked pass defense at Wembley Stadium.

Sit him
Jets QB Mark Sanchez averaged just 162 passing yards with a total of three TD passes over the last three weeks as the Jets committed more to the ground attack. He's not a good bet to do much.

WEEKEND FOOTBALL BETTING GUIDE

FALCONS 3-3 at LIONS 5-1

SUNDAY, 1 P.M.

Line: Lions -3.5 (O/U 47.5)
The Scoop: The Lions haven't ruled RB Jahvid Best out, but the line did drop a full point. Stay tuned.
Pick: Lions

TEXANS 3-3 at TITANS 3-2

SUNDAY, 1 P.M.

Line: Titans -3 (O/U 44.5)
The Scoop: Texans are 0-5 in last five games as underdog. Titans were 1-7 after the bye last year. Pick 'em.
Pick: Titans

SEAHAWKS 2-3 at BROWNS 2-3

SUNDAY, 1 P.M.

Line: Browns -3 (O/U 41)
The Scoop: Charlie Whitehurst will start and 'Hawks are getting points versus offensively challenged teams.
Pick: Seahawks

REDSKINS 3-2 at PANTHERS 1-5

SUNDAY, 1 P.M.

Line: Panthers -2.5 (O/U 43)
The Scoop: In John Beck we trust. 'Skins are 4-0 ATS in last four in this series and underdog is 9-0.
Pick: Redskins

BRONCOS 1-4 at DOLPHINS 0-5

SUNDAY, 1 P.M.

Line: Dolphins -1.5 (O/U 43)
The Scoop: Road dog lock. This is a virtual home game for Tim Tebow.
Pick: Broncos

CHARGERS 4-1 at JETS 3-3

SUNDAY, 1 P.M.

Line: Chargers -2 (O/U 43.5)
The Scoop: SD has yet to record a signature win and are 1-5 ATS in last six in this series. Don't trust Norv.
Pick: Jets

STEELERS 4-2 at CARDINALS 1-4

SUNDAY, 4:05 P.M.

Line: Steelers -4 (O/U 41.5)
The Scoop: Steelers' 'D' is tops versus the pass and ARZ is pass-happy. Plus, PITT is 17-3 when favored in last 20.
Pick: Steelers

CHIEFS 2-3 at RAIDERS 4-2

SUNDAY, 4:05 P.M.

Line: Raiders -4 (O/U 42.5)
The Scoop: Underdog is 8-0 ATS in last eight in this series. Ignore that. Al Davis memorial tour rolls on.
Pick: Raiders

RAMS 0-5 at COWBOYS 2-3

SUNDAY, 4:15 P.M.

Line: Cowboys -11.5 (O/U 44)
The Scoop: Rams are winless and haven't covered a spread all season. Oh, and they're BAD at football.
Pick: Cowboys

PACKERS 6-0 at VIKINGS 1-5

SUNDAY, 4:15 P.M.

Line: Packers -9 (O/U 46.5)
The Scoop: Pack swept series in '10 and 21-10 ATS in 31 division games.
Pick: Packers

Bears vs. Buccaneers (1 p.m. Sunday)

LINE: Bears -1 (O/U 44)

KEY INJURIES: WR Devin Hester (chest) probable. T Gabe Carimi (knee) questionable. RB LeGarrette Blount (knee) out. C Jeff Faine (biceps) probable. DT Gerald McCoy questionable.

THE SCOOP: Can we please stop playing football in England? It's rainy, the Wembley field was built for soccer and the game isn't even sold out. Anyway, for betting purposes, this has all the makings of a slow burner: ground and pound, with a lot of defense, something both squads are equipped for. The Bucs played in London in 2009 (in a 35-7 blowout loss) so they have some experience with the travel/weather. They are also 7-2 ATS in their last nine games as the betting underdog.
PICK: Buccaneers

COLTS 0-6 at SAINTS 4-2

SUNDAY, 8:20 P.M.

Line: Saints -14 (O/U 48.5)
The Scoop: Saints have failed to cover for the past two weeks, but here come the Colts. At the SuperDome, where NO is 2-0 ATS. Meanwhile, Indy is an absolute mess. Fans are calling for Jim Caldwell's job and the Colts offense ranks 31st in yards and 28th in points. Good luck keeping up with Drew Brees & Co.
Pick: Saints

RAVENS 4-1 at JAGUARS 1-5

MONDAY, 8:30 P.M.

Line: Ravens -7.5 (O/U 39)
The Scoop: Man, can we please start flexing Monday night games? This has all the makings of the Heidi Bowl — without the dramatic comeback. Ravens come in 4-1 ATS, 5-1 against the number in their last six Monday nighters and have won seven of last eight in this series. Play the over, it could get ugly.
Pick: Ravens

W. VIRGINIA NO. 11, 5-1 at SYRACUSE 4-2

FRIDAY, 8 P.M.

Line: West Virginia -14.5
The Scoop: You have to figure the Orange can keep it close — the Mountaineers are a paper tiger.
Pick: Syracuse

N. CAROLINA 5-2 at CLEMSON NO. 8, 7-0

SATURDAY, NOON

Line: Clemson -11
The Scoop: The over has hit in six of the Tigers' last eight games, and five of six at home.
Pick: Clemson

KANSAS ST. NO. 12, 6-0 at KANSAS 2-4

SATURDAY, NOON

Line: Kansas State -11.5
The Scoop: Kansas State is going to go all Bo Jackson/Marcus Allen over the nation's worst defense.
Pick: Kansas State

OKLA. ST. NO. 6, 6-0 at MISSOURI 3-3

SATURDAY, NOON

Line: Oklahoma State -7.5
The Scoop: Cowboys are 5-1 ATS this season and thinking national title averaging 49.2 points per contest.
Pick: Oklahoma State

BC 1-5 at VA. TECH NO. 16, 6-1

SATURDAY, 3 P.M.

Line: Virginia Tech -21
The Scoop: BC couldn't make up 21 points last week. Or this week.
Pick: Virginia Tech

AUBURN NO. 19, 5-2 at LSU NO. 1, 7-0

SATURDAY, 3:30 P.M.

Line: LSU -22
The Scoop: Maybe if the game was in Auburn (5-14-1 in Baton Rouge). No, probably not even then.
Pick: LSU

OREGON NO. 9, 5-1 at COLORADO 1-6

SATURDAY, 3:30 P.M.

Line: Oregon -31
The Scoop: Ducks are banged up (LaMichael James, Darron Thomas), and COL is 3-0-1 as home dog.
Pick: Colorado

AIR FORCE 3-3 at BOISE STATE NO. 5, 6-0

SATURDAY, 6 P.M.

Line: Boise State -31.5
The Scoop: All the trends point to Boise (10-0 in October, 6-0 SU, 4-2 ATS), and they covered 32 last week.
Pick: Boise State

TENNESSEE 3-3 at ALABAMA NO. 2, 7-0

SATURDAY, 7:15 P.M.

Line: Alabama -30
The Scoop: Roll Tide. 'Bama giving up just seven points per game — and Tennessee has QB issues.
Pick: Alabama

WISCONSIN NO. 4, 6-0 at MICH. ST. NO. 15, 5-1

SATURDAY, 8 P.M.

Line: Wisconsin -8
The Scoop: Both are chalk machines. Flip a coin, or take the points.
Pick: Michigan State

Flyers fall to Caps

Bryzgalov outclassed by Vokoun in 5-2 loss • Jagr stuck on 646 goals • First loss in regulation • Orange and Black host Blues this weekend

1 Better bang for the buck. The Flyers elected to sink their future — and a small fortune — in goalie Ilya Bryzgalov, signing him to a nine-year, $51 million deal. That enabled the Caps to snap up the other highly-regarded free agent goalie, Tomas Vokoun, to a one-year deal for $1.5 million. The 35-year-old Vokoun was the difference Thursday, as he kicked aside 40 shots to run his record to 5-0, while the Caps remained perfect at 6-0. Bryzgalov, on the other hand, was repeatedly victimized by screens and deflections in his poorest effort as a Flyer.

2 Charity starts at home. The Flyers were controlling the game, up 1-0, before successive giveaways in their own end gift-wrapped two late, first-period Caps' goals. First, with no one pressuring him, Scott Hartnell attempted a blind, clearing pass which was easily intercepted and turned into a goal. Then, Niklas Backstrom took the puck off a Flyer behind the boards, who set up Alex Ovechkin for the lead score and the first of Ovechkin's two goals. After a strong second period, the game quickly turned into a rout in the third on Washington's three-goal blitz in a 2:25 span.

3 Stuck on 646. Future Hall of Famer Jaromir Jagr appears to be pressing in his attempt to break the ice and score his first Flyers' goal and 647th of his career. While the Caps did a good job bottling up Jagr, the big man clearly wasn't as much of a presence as in previous games. Jagr insists he's not too concerned about his goalless drought, which stretches back to 2008 when he scored 25 for the Rangers. But the sooner he can turn on the red light, the better both he and the Flyers figure to be.

Did Eagles medical staff help save player's life?

Harrison failed physical due to brain tumor Trade voided by NFL

Jerome Harrison's failed physical may have saved his life.

The Lions running back has a brain tumor that was revealed during a physical Wednesday performed by the Eagles' medical staff. On Tuesday, the Lions and Eagles struck a deal that would have sent Harrison to Philly in exchange for Ronnie Brown and a seventh-round pick in 2013.

Instead, the trade was voided. The 28-year-old Harrison didn't practice with the Lions on Thursday and head coach Jim Schwartz wouldn't comment on the player's health. METRO
